

London Mediators Day - 6th October 2018

London Mediators Day is a grass roots mediation conference with a community mediation flavour and a convivial atmosphere.

It provides an opportunity to meet mediators from all sectors of the profession, and to learn about the practical aspects of mediation from experts in various aspects of mediation and communication.

Our keynote speakers will provide insights into some important and controversial issues. Our workshop providers will help you understand some important features and techniques associated with mediation, including aspects of mediation psychology. There will be two workshop sessions and you can select your workshops of choice from 6 available topics.

We will end the day with a panel discussion based on questions from the audience. This will be followed by a free raffle prize draw and a drinks reception.

Key-note speakers from the world of mediation:

Sir Alan Ward Chair, Civil Mediation Council

Mediation Awareness Week – Lift Off

Maria Arpa Founder and Chief Executive, Centre for Peaceful Solutions

Neighbour and community mediation – Is there a roadmap?

Charlotte Calkin Director, Restorative Engagement Forum

Victims – Seen from all angles

Andrew Goodman Convenor, Standing Conference of Mediation Advocates

Bad lawyers and Good mediators

Choice of two workshops from six available themes:

Nick Adlington

What on earth is going on? Understanding variables that impact on mediation

Tony Buon

Space Wars: Getting the room right for mediation

Cressida Burnet

Mediation in family disputes

Charlotte Calkin and colleagues

Restorative Justice – How does it work?

Irene Grindell

Spenser Hilliard

Cognitive biases and heuristics - What mediators need to know about neuroscience

For non-mediators, London Mediators Day provides an opportunity to understand the benefits and the value of mediation. You will also gain insights into the skills that professional mediators employ in helping to resolve conflicts quickly, cheaply and effectively.

For practising and trainee mediators, it provides a special learning experience, and attracts six points towards the annual CPD requirements of the College of Mediators.

London Mediators Day is regarded as the best value mediation conference in the UK. Ticket prices are inclusive of all catering costs. Tickets for community mediators are subsidised and group discounts are available.

Refreshments are provided on arrival and during the morning and afternoon breaks. A hot lunch is provided, and vegetarian options are available. We end the day with a drinks reception.

And, there's a free raffle prize draw – for mediation books signed by the authors

Ticket Prices:

Standard Tickets	£135
Community Mediators	£85
Group discount (5 or more)	10%

Please book early to avoid disappointment and to secure your preferred workshop choices.

We look forward to welcoming you at London Mediators Day
